This course is designed to familiarize you with the politics of Western Europe, concentrating on the period since 1990. The fundamental goal of this course is to question how institutions, parties, and governments influence political developments in Europe. The course is divided thematically into two broad sections: 1) domestic political institutions and political systems and 2) country studies of several western European states.

We begin by considering the character of democratic organization and party competition in Europe, and explore the institutional and fundamentals that underlie outcomes. We will then complement our analyses of these issues with more in-depth investigation of the political situation and background of the case countries. For each country, we will spend time analyzing how social and political forces have shaped policies aimed at securing growth and prosperity for all. Planned case studies are the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Sweden and Belgium.

In the last section of the course, we shall consider the organization of the European Union. We will focus mainly on the interactions between the states and the EU.

There are no formal prerequisites for this class, but an introductory course in political science or comparative politics is helpful.

Required Reading

Two textbooks are required for this course. Copies are available at the student bookstores and elsewhere.

- Bale, T. (2008). European Politics: A Comparative Introduction (2nd Edition ed.). New York, NY, US: Palgrave Macmillan. ISBN: 978-0-230-57379-7 (abbreviated as EP)
- Hancock, M. D. (2007). Politics in Europe. Washington, DC, US: CQ Press. ISBN 978-1-93311645-7 (abbreviated as PiE)

In addition to the required books, there will be several required readings from other sources. Links to these readings will be available on the T-square site for the course. Specific readings for each week are noted in the course schedule.

The T-square site will also contain other important material for the course, including assignments, study guides for exams, and so on. Regular access to T-Square is mandatory for this course. Most of you already have the necessary skills to use this tool, but if you don't OIT runs periodic workshops.

Recommended Reading

Being informed about what is going on in the world is always a good idea. We will spend some time in this course discussing contemporary European politics, and though it is not required I highly recommend spending a little time each day checking the international news. Keeping up with European events will enhance the quality of our discussions as we incorporate what we are learning with what we see and read in the news. Listed below are some of the best news sources you can use to stay abreast of events in Europe. If you speak a non-English European language, I can recommend country-specific news outlets as well.

- *The Financial Times* (British daily newspaper with quality information on Europe)
- *The Economist* (weekly British newsmagazine)
- *BBC News*
- *The New York Times* (best American coverage of European events)

You should also consider reading the US Department of State's Background of each country, as we are about to discuss them in class to get you up to speed on the current political situation within each country.

Background notes can be found at: <http://www.state.gov/r/pa/ei/bgn/index.htm>.

Class Format

This class will meet three times a week for 50 minutes. A list of general discussion questions appears with the reading assignment for each session. I expect all students to come to class having done the reading and ready to comment and/or ask questions. Remember, no question is too small or too obvious. Chances are your classmates will be wondering the same thing.

Course Requirements

- Quizzes (5/6): 20%
- Midterm Exam: 20%
- Final Exam: 25%
- Issue Papers (3) 20%
- Participation: 15%

Quizzes (20%)

There will be six quizzes over the semester, given on Fridays. The quizzes will not last more than 15 minutes, but will be mainly to make sure you are keeping up with the reading and lectures. You will be able to drop your lowest quiz grade so only your best five grades will count towards your final grade. Make-up quizzes will not be offered.

Exams (45%)

There will be two exams during the semester – The midterm (worth 20%) will cover material from the first part of class and the final (worth 25%) will be cumulative (but weighted toward the second half of the course). Each of these exams will consist of a series of short answer, matching and identification questions. I will provide a study guide prior to each exam. The midterm exam will be held February 23rd in class and the final exam is scheduled for May 4th (Wednesday) from 2:50-5:40p.

Issue Papers (20%)

I will assign three papers to be written during the semester. Each should be between five (5) and seven (7) pages, in 12-point Times New Roman font and double-spaced with one-inch margins. The topics and formats for each paper will be given with plenty of notice (at least two weeks prior to the deadline). All papers are due by the beginning of class. The first paper will be due February 14th, the second is due March 14th, and the last paper is due April 18th. Papers must be submitted on paper and stapled. Electronic submission will be not accepted. Late papers will not be accepted without a valid (documented) excuse.

I will allow you to “mulligan” one paper. Once I hand papers back, if you want to take my comments into account and redo your papers, you will have 48 hours to do so for the chance to increase your grade by one letter. Papers with an A cannot be redone for additional credit.

Attendance and Participation (15%)

Attendance in class is mandatory. However, being in class is not enough – you should participate and ask questions, especially during the discussion period after each lecture. Demonstration of having done the reading will result in a better grade. Please advise me ahead of time if you will miss class or afterward if you are ill. I will grant you two absences (for whatever reason) during the semester, after which, your final grade will be deducted 1.5 points for each additional absence (10 points off your participation grade). Obviously there are extenuating circumstances that I will consider, but you need to consider your presence in class as vital to your final grade. Only family emergencies, illnesses, or Institute-approved absences will count as excused absences.

Honor Code

Full compliance with the Georgia Institute of Technology's Honor Code is required on all assignments, exams, and papers.

Go to www.honor.gatech.edu for more information.

Special Needs

I am happy to meet any special needs you may have for the class in terms of assistance. You must present me with your ADAPTS office information so that I can make sure our learning environment is best suited to help you succeed.

Final Caveat

This syllabus is to be considered a living document and therefore subject to change. Any major changes (such as moving a due date) will be discussed with the class and posted to T-Square. If you have any questions about what you see on the syllabus, please see me to discuss.
